1. Six physicians were recently summoned to the Ministry of Interior and offered employment as physicians in the State Security with the military rank of captain. The physicians were offered 24,000 lei per month salary, an apartment and linen and two uniforms free. They were promised two kilograms white bread daily and the use of an automobile. Officials of the Ministry of Interior likewise promised that after one month they would be promoted to the rank of major with a salary of 45,000 lei monthly.
2. The physicians were given twenty-four hours to reach a decision. All accepted the offer and were given 15,000 lei each before signing their contracts.
3. Other physicians who refused similar offers from the State Security were transferred immediately to the provinces.
